

Sari splendour

After conquering cancer and starting her life afresh with husband Jason Dehni, actor Lisa Ray, recently designed a limited-edition collection of 10 saris for Satya Paul. The launch party held at DLF Emporio also initiated an online auction of the Satya Paul sari that she wore on her wedding, the proceeds from which and a part of sales from the limited-edition collection will go to the India Innovation Research Center (IIRC), a non-profit cancer research body.

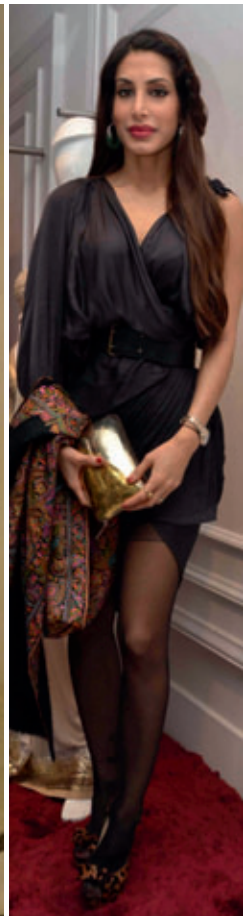

She looked stunning in a rose pink sari as she spoke about her stint with cancer.

"There are many different shades to life. Sometime we move into darkness and sometimes we move into light. Life is a joyful place and we all have to celebrate it while creating change and hope for all," said Lisa.

The newly appointed fashion director for Satya Paul, Masaba Gupta was also there to support Lisa. Designer duo Shivan and Narresh, who came straight from the airport, said, "We just came back from Mumbai and Masaba is a good friend so we had to join her."
